Mr. Wallcut has drawn off the above statement from the "Liberator" books, at my request. He says, no payment from you came in 1862; – there was one in 1861, as stated, previous to which, none since 1857. If it be your wish, as I understand from your note, to pay £1. annually to Liberator, the £2. now sent would pay to Jan. 1st 1861; but Mr. Wallcut agrees with me in thinking that, on account of the large advance now obtained on English bills, your remittance of £2. should carry your account forward another year, and he accordingly gives you credit to Jan. 1st 1862. — The last bill is not yet cashed, but the £2., which in ordinary times would give here about $9.60, will probably yield nearly $14.
